CLEANING GUN, SHOOTS HIMSELF

Monongahela Man Dies from

Accident On Yesterday Afternoon.

FUNERAL THIS MORNING

Peter Martinpillo of Monongahela, trifled with a loaded revolver yesterday afternoon and accidentally discharged the weapon, the bullet taking effect in his left side and penetrating the heart and lung. He died instantly. The report of the revolver brought other members of the household to his room.

His body was found lying in a pool of blood that poured from the wound in his breast. It is supposed that Martinpillo was about to clean the weapon and was unaware that the loaded shells had not been withdrawn. He was aged 19 years. The funeral was held this forenoon at 10 o'clock from the St. Anthony church.

Heavily Fined.

The largest fine ever imposed by a Washington, Pa., burgess was assessed against Julie DePhillippe, who pleaded guilty to a charge of keeping dynamite in the borough. Fifty dollars and costs was the penalty.

MAY HAVE TO PAY $62,000 FOR BUILDING

The town of Belle Vernon is at present facing a chance of having to pay $62,000 for a $25,000 school building. The building was erected in 1873, and the cost of construction at that time was something over $25,000. Bonds were issued to the amount of $18,000 the balance being raised by taxation and otherwise. Part of the bonds drew 8 per cent. interest for 15 years. Of the amount originally borrowed only $5,500 has been paid, while bonds to the amount of $16,420 have since been issued. All but the $12,500 has, however been redeemed. In the 35 years the bonded indebtedness has cost the taxpayers, including principal and interest, $34,625.

Adding to this the $7,000 above the first bond issue that the school district raised in 1873, makes the building cost already $41,625. There is yet due $12,500. If one bond a year is redeemed it will take 25 years to liquidate the indebtedness. In this time the interest will foot up $7,625. This will make the building have cost $61,570, and have taken for its payment a period of 60 years.

Today the Belle Vernon house of learning would bring scarcely $5,000. It is not up-to-date and has no conveniences.

Tendered Surprise.

Mrs. S. E. White of Wilkinsburg, was tendered a birthday surprise at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Crawford, No. 466 Lookout avenue Saturday evening 6 p. m. The plans were well laid and "Auntie White" received the surprise of her life, although the occasion was the anniversary of her 75th birthday. Many kind regards were sent from those who were not able to be present. Many beautiful and useful presents were given with best wishes for many more pleasant occasions. Six o'clock dinner was served by Mrs. Crawford assisted by Mrs. W. D. Pollock. The evening was spent in social conversation and pleasant recollections of happy days gone by.

Modern Miracle Worker.

The discovery of a German scientist has brought about radical change in the treatment of piles. The following prescription, 6 drops Carbolic Acid, 1 dram Zetan, one-half ounce Zinc Ointment mixed and applied night and morning will cure any form of piles permanently. Any druggist can compound this prescription.

Will Be Given Reception.

Mr. and Mrs. John K. Tener will be given a reception at Butler to night by the Elks of which Mr. Tener is Grand Exalted Ruler. Mrs. Tener will also be a guest of honor.

ACTIVITY IN THE CAMP OF OSBORNE

Baseball In Charleroi Will Receive Impetus This Week.

PLAYERS REPORTING

The first active step in local baseball takes place today. Quite a number of men have reported to Manager Osborne and daily practice will be indulged in until the 24th when the first exhibition game will be played.

At that time the strong W. and J. College team under the direction of Coach McHale will be here. On the 25th the P. A. C. team of Pittsburg will be here. On the 28th the local fans will be given a chance to see McKeesport of the O. and P. League and on the 29th Bill Phillips will have his East Liverpool team here.

From the bunch that Osborne has signed he should be able to pick a winning combination from Charleroi in the new Pawva League.

He has a bunch of twirlers that can't be beat, by any in the league. The catching department will be well taken care of by George Dailey and with those that Arch has signed for the remaining positions he thinks there will be nothing to it but Charleroi.

QUARREL--ONE STABBED

Foreigners Fight--Police

Busy Saturday And Sunday.

As a result of a little disagreement over the fancies of a girl, John Russell, a miner of Rostraver is wearing his head sideways today, and Charles Kritz, a farmer of somewhere possesses a gloomy look. The former received a slit in the neck that while not dangerous is very painful. The other was not hurt much, because of his size, being able to well take care of his opponent.

The fight occurred at 938 Oakland avenue, after a several minutes wrangling during which time each flung invectives enough at the other that Hades would seem like a May day compared with the atmosphere in that vicinity.

The police were called for after Kritz had drawn a knife and tried to cut off Russell's head. Both fighters were arrested and will have a hearing this evening.

Hats and Things.

Of all the exaggerated feminine fashions which have struck swelldom in years, the Merry Widow hat probably carries off all the posies in the conservators—at least it has the dimensions to accomplish this feat.

Just think of this boys, they tell of some 36 inches in diameter. Why they are bigger around than the rucking-on-on—well this isn't the woman's corner, and I'm afraid to take a chance.

Some of our Willie boys a few years ago went in for a wide brimmed straw, but the sombrero style never got very far among the chaos who took their exercise in a civilized community. However, when it comes to stirring things up, give us the fair sex every time.

We have not been giving this matter much thought until yesterday, but it strikes us now that we shall have to make it a point to take up an observation peace about the skyscraper comedy when the wind is blowing and keep a sharp eye peeled for a Merry Widow hat. Just ponder on the psychological research which might be developed there. The question to determine being: In a squall which ear should she trim first—hat or hosiery?—Uniontown Herald.

Jurors For May Term.

The following have been drawn as grand and petit jurors for the May term from Charleroi: W. R. Ritchey, as grand juror; J. R. Kelly, Lewis Cotton, G. R. Long, R. P. Fitzgerald, Allen S. Mansfield, as traverse jurors.

New Railroad.

A new railroad will soon make its appearance. Watch for further announcement of the O. I. C. and B. Q. lines. 2172

FRIENDS QUARRELED AND MURDER IS THE RESULT

A Good Move.

J. W. Berryman and Son announce in today's advertisement their intention of closing their store at 5 o'clock on Wednesdays. We want to congratulate them on taking this progressive step. All merchants should do likewise. Clerks in dry goods and clothing stores have too long hours here. Employers cannot expect good service from employees who have to be on duty 12 and 14 hours a day.

Social.

The Ladies of the Maccabee's will give a 10 cent social Thursday evening, April 23, in P. H. C. hall. Social will begin at 8.30 o'clock. A good time has been planned. Members and their friends are invited. Coffee and sandwiches will be served.

AS VIEWED IN PITTSBURG

The Resumption Of Work

In Mines Will Stimulate Other Trades.

Mine workers and operators of the Pittsburg district who were present at the wage conference in Toledo, which closed Friday night, arrived home yesterday. Both sides are well pleased with the result of the conference, and it is the opinion that by tomorrow or Tuesday at the least the mines in the district will be working to at least half of their full capacity.

A meeting of the Pittsburg operators will probably be held tomorrow afternoon, when a committee will be appointed to confer with a committee representing District No. 5 of the United Mine Workers of America, for the purpose of drafting a scale to fit the conditions of the local district under the new inter-State agreement. All the companies that wish may begin the operation of their mines tomorrow, though it is not thought that many of them will go into operation until Tuesday.

Second only to that of the miners and operators is the satisfactory feeling held by the traffic officials of the railroad in Pittsburg regarding the agreement reached in the dispute over the coal wage scale. A marked impetus will be given the freight movement this week, and preparations are being made to handle an immense tonnage by rail and lake.

Although the manufacturers and railroad officials had anticipated trouble in the mining situation, and a probable suspension was expected, they arranged to store a supply to carry them through this period, but as the opinion prevailed that an early agreement would be reached this supply was rather limited and is said to be rapidly diminishing.

Preparations on the lakes have been made, and it is understood the Pittsburg Steamship Company has 12 boats tied up for repairs which will be ready for operation in about 10 days. The Ashtabula Port Burwell ferry will go into commission tomorrow, establishing service for heavy freight across the lake to Canada.

The coal-handling facilities along the lakes have been repaired and every move has been made by the transportation companies for a large tonnage. Reports to the traffic officials of railroads in Pittsburg indicate large contracts have been received from the Northwestern consumers. —Dispatch.

Monessen Italian Youths Be-

come Angered And One Is Knifed.

ASSAILANT IS CAUGHT

Escapes After Committing

Act But Is Found Sunday Morning.

As a result of a quarrel over a trivial matter Saturday night in Monessen Elia Chierigh to is dead, and Guido Lalli is now confined in the Westmoreland County Jail at Greensburg, charged with murder. The tragedy took place in the yard of the home where the two young Italians boarded, at about 10 o'clock, in the presence of the victim's two brothers and two other foreigners.

What the quarrel was about has not been learned, but it was some unimportant matter on which there occurred a difference of opinion, after the friends had sought their room for the night. Heated words brought on an offer of one of the young fellows to settle the matter in the yard where there was more room.

There the Italian youths went at each other hammer and tongs. During a brief respite Lalli drew a knife and plunged it into his opponent's body, the blade sinking into the left lung, just below the heart, making a fearful wound. The latter succumbed at once, almost before the steel could be removed from his body. Lalli fled and although a search was instituted no trace of the fugitive could be found during the night.

On Sunday morning at 7:30 as officer Peterson was going to the station house he saw a man on Third street bearing the appearance of Lalli. He finally identified him as such and placed him under arrest. A preliminary hearing before a justice was held and the young man was held for court.

Lalli and Chierighetto were both 21 years of age and had been chums from the day they met, about eleven months ago. The former seemed sorry that he had committed an act that caused his friend's death and said he was ready to suffer the consequences.

Costotina Ronito and Mike Brizzi had a fight last night, at 7:30 on the hill near Twelfth street. It was over a girl. The men were arrested and will appear tonight for a hearing.

The firm of Shannon and Mason, Butter and Egg dealers of Fallowfield avenue has been dissolved. The business will in future be conducted by Mr. Shannon.

Health and Cooking.

Good cooking is rapidly becoming a lost art. They who prepare the food for the world decide the health of the world. You have only to go on some errand amid the hotels of the United States and Great Britain to appreciate the fact that a vast multitude of the human race are slaughtered by incompetent cookery. Though a young woman may have taken lessons in music, and may have taken lessons in painting, and lessons in astronomy, she is not well educated unless she has taken lessons in dough.

As To Reservoirs.
A Civil engineer of Cincinnati a
Mr. Gillespie has evolved a scheme to
to avoid the annual Spring floods that
work such havoc in the Ohio valley
He proposes to build reservoirs at the heads of the Monongahela and Allegheny rivers and their tributaries and
impound the surplus waters
A few figures may show the fallacy
of his scheme Using the following
data as a basis of calculation it will
easily seen what a misconception he
has of the problem. There are 43,560 sq.
feet in an acre; also 144 sq. inches in
a square foot and 1728 cubic inches in a cubic foot. A cubic foot of water contains 7.5 gallons. These figures
mean that there are 27,225 gallons of
water fall on an acre when there is an inch of rain. There are 63 acres in
a square mile, which means that there 17,424,000 gallons of water fall on a
square mile from an inch of rainfall
When you take into consideration
the tens of thousands of square miles
composing the sheds of the two rivers
you can easily see that Gillespie's
scheme is a fantastic one. for with
the accumulations of a winter's snows
passing off in a week's time a thousand
reservoirs as large as the Assouan
would not hold the water
There is but one way to mitigate the severity of the Spring floods and that is to reforest the mountains that have been stripped of their timber. If at
same time, grass seed is sown so as to have a sod to act as a sponge through
which the water may gradually drain
off, it will greatly aid the work.
That is the only solution of the
flood problem: all else is a waste of time and money.

A Losing Issue.
Local option, taking the State as a whole, seems to have cut a very small
the recent primaries.
Less than one-fourth of the State
Senators and Representatives nominated were chosen upon that issue. Some of our exchanges seem to think that in

many cases the cause was discredited
in advance by the men who seized up
on it as a political life preserver.
Be that as it may it is pretty certain there will no change in the laws
governing the liquor traffic at the coming session of the legislature if the primary returns are any criterion to judge from

Work Resumed.
The whole or partial resumption of
work in the mines in this vicinity
this morning causes rejoicing among
all classes of our citizens. It will take several days before the output
becomes normal as there will be some
necessary cleaning up and the mines
overhauled
The Mail would especially caution
the miners to exercise unusual caution
and care upon entering their places as
after a period of idleness loose rock
is apt to fall from unexpected places.
By exercising proper caution many accidents and fatalities may be avoided.
Be careful.

Tasty Displays.
The Easter displays of Charleroi
merchants reflected great credit upon
their taste and ingenuity and which
were equal in artistic skill of a window dresser of an emporium of a large
city
The people of Charleroi should
take pride in patronizing their home
merchants as every dollar or even a
dime spent at home goes towards up-
building the city while money spent
in a mail order house is lost. Read
the advertising columns of The Mail
and act accordingly.

Is This Fair.
It is astonishing to read the number
and extent of the libellous criticisms
made upon the freemen of Pennsylvania
by newspapers presumably edited
by intelligent men.
They seem to revel in portraying the
people of Pennsylvania as ignorant or
degraded, servile and subjugated, the peons of an unscrupulous boss. To read
those strictures those unacquainted
with our people would imagine that
they were sodden trembling hinds
who had neither power nor will of
their own and to whom the nod of a
political boss was as a fiat of God
Just what prompts these libels is
not apparent and the reason for them
is still more obscure. It is well, however, to remember that Pennsylvania
is neither Kansas nor Oklahoma that
is and its had uncongenial soil
here. The reformer with a theory of how to reform the world with legal
enactments receives scant courtesy.
Pennsylvania has demonstrated what
is good and is holding fast to it, notwithstanding the unseemly and most untruthful strictures of self-styled
tribunes

Curious Condensations.
The coal purchases of United States government aggregate nearly $6,300,000 annually.
A new monthly postal service
across the Desert of Sahara has just been established. The messengers are mounted on camels.
Marriage at an early age is frequently in Mexico. Recently a boy of 16 and a girl of 14 were married at the capital.
A company has been formed for introducing wireless and long distance telephone between Mexico City and Vera Cruz.
Next month (22d to 27th) Madrid will have a cattle show and show of machines; The Americans are officially invited to take part.
On the French Northern railway
many carriages are lighted by acetylene, and the results of using this
method of illumination are said to be satisfactory.
Controller Wilson, of Chicago, has
made public the singular ruling that
no telephone, traction, electric light
or other public utility corporation can
make contributions to hospitals or
other charities.
Colonel John Temple Graves is said
to be on detailed duty this spring as one of William Randolph Hearst's
walking delegates and organizers.
"To Hearst he gives up what was meant for mankind."

It is a fair supposition that at some future day Japan and China will clash
words for the political headship of the Far East. Official Japan has no
wish to hasten that date, and China

has much to do before she is ready
for it.
The English language is now
taught in many of the schools of Paraguay. Consul Norton (Asuncion)
reports: "American school
books, especially those designed for kindergarten and primary classes, are highly esteemed."
The officers of the American regiments now in Cuba are studying
Spanish by order of General Barry.
"Those of our officers whom I saw on coming to Cuba who could swap one
thought with a Cuban," wrote Colonel Bullard, of the Eighth infantry,
not long ago to a military journal, "I
could count upon my fingers."

One of the tasks Japan has undertaken is the reforesting of Korea.
The watersheds has been largely denuded of their trees before the Japanese took hold, and the unhappy
Country of the Morning Calm is paying the penalty in the submergence of
wide areas of farm land by devastating floods.

The Rev. J. M. Haines, of Logans-
port, Ind., wanted to be a presiding
elder. Instead of giving him that
coveted position, the bishop sent him
to a small country charge. He flatly refused to go. He says he'll spend
the next two years on a farm he owns, and may retire from the ministry altogether. It is probable that he will.

Stood with Father.
"There is a little chap in our town,"
said the suburbanite, "whose father
and mother have a quite frequently, and have them loud enough to be heard by the neighbors. The burden
of their recriminations, when audible,
is, on the wife's part, that she ever
lowered the Hicks family sufficiently
to marry a Stubbs; and on his part
that he ever honored the Hicks family
by allying it with the house of Stubbs.
One day last summer the young son
of the house went fishing. He had barely got his line into the brook
when he heard his mother calling him.
"There it is," said he, disgustedly;
"the minute the Stubbses begins to fish the Hickses begins to hollar."

The Nubian Passion.
They had just established a telephone exchange in the circus and engaged a puffed and pompous
young woman to take charge of it.
The pride of the Nubian desert had
suffered from an attack of indigestion
and the doctor of the show called up
and asked how he was.
The telephone young woman looked
around and saw that the noble brute
was snapping and snarling over his
breakfast.
"Lion's busy!" she answered and
rang off.

Test for Hydrochloric Acid.
A curious mishap has given us a
very delicate test for hydrochloric acid
in the atmosphere. In a North of England locality many houses have curtains of the cream color produced by
metanil yellow—popularly known as
"dolly" cream dye and to science as
"the sodium salt of meta-amido-ben-
zine" sulphonic acid azo diphenyl-
amine." Some of these cream-colored curtains suddenly changed to helletropic. Investigation showed that an accidental escape of hydrochloric acid
from a neighboring alkali plant had
discolored the curtains and the dye
became a most useful test.

and thus prevent that uncom-
fortable pressure and rubbing
wear to the hosiery found in the ordinary low cut shoe. The per-

Good Easter Program In the Churches

and how he preformed the many miracles. He also told how the Savior met and vanquished the philosophers and sophists of his day. At 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon the Sunday school carried out the Easter exercises with songs, and recitations. In the evening at 7:45 the pastor gave a brief talk on the "History of Africa and Missions". A missionary collection was taken for home and foreign missions.

Lutheran

Very interesting services were held yesterday in the Christ Lutheran Church. At the morning service, the church was crowded to witness the confirmation of 15 young people. The class entered the church singing their confirmation hymn as a procession. The class was composed of nine young ladies and six young men. The service was an especially impressive one. There were six others who united with the church, making the total accessions for yesterday twenty-one. After the reception of members, the Holy Communion was administered to those received, and confirmation certificates presented. The decorations consisted of a profusion of ferns, palms, and Easter lilies, artistically arranged. At the evening worship, the beautiful Easter service, "Rays of Hope," was rendered by the Sunday school. A chorus of 30 voices led the music. The recitations and exercises by the children were of excellence.

An unusual occurrence was the presentation of a Bible as a reward of merit for faithful attendance in the Sunday School. The Bible was presented to little Margaret Clair, who is scarcely 6 years old, for having not missed being present in Sunday school for 4 years. This part could scarcely be duplicated in the county, perhaps in the state.

The common expressions by those who witnessed the services of the day were that they were the best and prettiest Easter services ever attended. The benevolent offering for the day was over $21.00. At the close of the evening service, a congregational meeting was held when they instructed the Church Council to let contract to the lowest bidder and proceed with the erection of the proposed new church as soon as necessary arrangements can be made. This was a great day for this active little church, and the future is certainly bright for them.

Washington Avenue Presbyterian

The services at the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church yesterday consisted of an Easter sermon by the pastor in the morning on the subject: "Our Risen Lord," from I Thess. 4:13-14; and a special program in the evening consisting of music and exercises by the young ladies. The children's chorus which was under the direction of Prof. R. M. Kay was a feature of the exercises. The children showed careful and thorough training, and their execution of some ten numbers merited the praise of the large audience present. The Easter cross presented by the young ladies was beautiful and impressive.

Mr. A. T. Sievertson rendered a violin solo that was much appreciated.

Owing to the absence of a regular ordained minister the services at the Episcopal church were not as complete Easter, as they might have been. Nevertheless the idea of Easter was carried out by a layman. The program follows:

Professional Hymn
Anthem—Christ, Our Passover.
Te Deum, solo part by William Hamilton.

Hymn—Angels, Roll the Rock Away.

Sermon by Layman.
Anthem—Resurrection.
Offertory.
Recessional Hymn.

St. Jerome's Catholic.

Rev. Father A. J. Duvall, of the Pittsburgh Apostolate had charge of the high mass at 10:30 o'clock in St. Jerome's church yesterday. He delivered the sermon on an Easter Day topic. The music was in charge of Joseph Schoener. First mass was at eight o'clock and second mass at nine. Sermons were preached on the Feast of the Resurrection.

Cheap Home-Made Barometer.
A weather man described the other day a cheap home-made barometer. He said it was only necessary to take a piece of string about 15 inches long and to soak it several hours in a strong solution of salt and water. After being dried the string should have a light weight tied to one end and be hung up against a wall, a mark being made to show where the weight reaches. The barometer is now complete. It is as accurate as a $100 instrument. The weight rises for wet weather and falls for fine.

The Ownership of Ptolemy Caesar.

By LEONARD FRANK ADAMS.

Copyrighted, 1928, by Jessie Morgan.

Ravenor stood in the library in all the luxury of early morning negligence. A gorgeous bathrobe swathed his big frame from his chin to his heels. His feet were thrust into a pair of comfortable looking Turkish slippers. Between his lips was a cigarette, deep drifts of which he inhaled thoughtfully as he eyed the man in the chair by the window. The latter was responsible for Ravenor's appearance downstairs at this unseemly hour.

Ravenor's early caller was not prepossessing. Indeed, he was distinctly otherwise. His eyes were small, watery blue and shifty. His underjaw was weak, and his seedy clothes and frayed linen were none too clean. Beside him, its own smart appearance in striking contrast to the man's general out at the elbows air, crouched a Boston terrier.

"Want to sell me the pup, I suppose," Ravenor said pleasantly. "That's why you're here, isn't it? That's why you got me out of bed at this un-Christian hour?"

The man nodded hopefully. "Sure," he admitted. "I thought you'd like a chance at 'im so long as I got to raise the dough."

"Where'd you get him?" Ravenor asked sharply.

"Raised 'im from a pup, 'step me," the man responded glibly. "As I wouldn't be sellin' 'im if I didn't need the coin the worst way. I 'eard as 'ow you was open for a good trade in 'is line, so I brought 'im round. 'E's all right, now, ain't 'e? Stand up, Ptolemy, an' give the gent a good look at you."

The dog obediently stood up, and Ravenor's eyes lighted with interest. There could be no denying that Ptolemy was a fine specimen of his breed. His clean cut head, his well shaped shoulders, even his crooked little tail, all bespoke that.

"I got 'is pedigree 'ere on this paper," the man observed, drawing a dirty envelope from his pocket.

"Oh, never mind that," Ravenor replied, with a meaning grin. "What do you want for him?"

"I'd oughter get fifty, an' 'e's dirt cheap at that."

"Tell you what I'll do—I'll give you thirty."

The man shrugged his shoulders. "I can't be too fussy, boss," he said. "I need the money, an' I need it bad. So long as I know 'e's goin' into good 'ands I guess there ain't nothin' for me to do but to take you up, though it's most like givin' 'im to you at that price."

Ravenor counted out the bills and handed them to the man, who ran then over with grimy fingers and departed, with a sigh and a sorrowful glance in the dog's direction, both of which were rather overdone.

Once the front door had closed behind him, Ravenor tossed his cigarette into the fireplace and pressed the button on the wall.

"Annie," he said to the second girl, who answered his summons, "I've just bought this pup. He answers to the name of Ptolemy. Take him downstairs and give him a feed; then let him out in the back yard. I'm going upstairs. You may call me at 10."

Ravenor went upstairs to resume his interrupted slumbers, and Ptolemy, having fared sumptuously at the hands of the cook, was turned loose in the back yard, where he galloped about gleefully, enjoying a rare half hour's sport with a bit of trailing clothesline and making desperate endeavors to catch the sparrows which now and again fluttered into the yard.

It was perhaps three-quarters of an hour after the sale that a cautious whistle sounded from the alley side of the high fence which inclosed the back yard. Ptolemy, with a yelp of joy, answered it. The back gate swung noiselessly open, just far enough for the dog to squeeze through. He was gathered up by the seedy man who had interviewed Ravenor in the library, thrust unceremoniously beneath his coat and borne down the alley at a shuffling run.

Therefore when Ravenor made his appearance at 11 o'clock no Ptolemy answered his repeated whistlings. Annie and the cook protested weepingly their complete mystification in the dog's disappearance. Sure, they had thought him right in the yard all the time, they declared. He'd been chasing the sparrows and yelping there not ten minutes since. Ravenor searched the back yard thoroughly, the tool house, the little shed that held the ash barrels, even the coil of hose that lay in one corner, but no trace of his recent purchase could he find.

After lunch he went downtown to put an advertisement of his loss in the paper. The afternoon being particularly fine, he decided to walk home. He had reached the little square where Norwood street crosses the avenue and was striding briskly past the statue in the center of the diminutive park when a dog in full cry after a flock of elusive sparrows dashed past him.

There could be no mistaking that head, those clean cut shoulders, the distinctive markings of the neck and flank. Ravenor started in pursuit of the dog.

"Here, you, Ptolemy, Ptolemy! Come here! Come here, I say!" he cried. The dog stopped, seemed to debate for a moment, then came toward Ravenor, wriggling his twisted stump of a tail in ridiculous apology.

"Nice way you deserted me this morning, wasn't it?" said Ravenor severely. "Come on with me now. No more back yard orgies for you unless some one has an eye on you."

He started homeward, the dog following meekly at his heels, but before he reached the other side of the park he caught the quick tread of light footfalls. An agitated voice close behind him was saying, "Oh, I beg your pardon."

He swung about to find himself face to face with Katherine Gray. Ravenor unconsciously stiffened. It was a trifle disconcerting to come thus abruptly upon a girl with whom he had quarreled but a short week before—a girl who before that quarrel had been the subject of his everyday dream.

The girl was equally surprised and embarrassed. She caught her breath in a little gasp, and the quick color mounted her cheeks. Almost instantly, however, she had recovered her poise.

"I'm sorry to trouble you," she said coldly. "I merely came for my dog. I saw he was following you."

"Your dog?" said Ravenor.

"My dog," she repeated.

Ravenor looked uncomfortable, but he faced her resolutely.

"There must be a mistake about this," said he. "I'm very sure he's mine."

"Yours?"

"Let me prove it to you. He knows his name. Here, Ptolemy."

The dog came obediently to Ravenor's side. He sat down and looked up expectantly.

The girl gasped. "I don't understand it," she said. "Now let me try the same proof. Here, Caesar."

The dog trotted over to her and repeated his maneuvers.

"Good heavens!" said Ravenor, utterly bewildered for the moment. Then suddenly he had an inspiration.

"Did you buy him recently?" he asked.

"This afternoon," she confessed.

"Of a seedy, shifty eyed man?"

She nodded.

Ravenor drew a long breath; then he laughed. "That explains it," he declared. "I bought him of the same man at 7 this morning."

"Oh!" said the girl; then she, too, fell to laughing.

"Come," said Ravenor at length, "let me walk home with you, and there we'll decide who has the better claim to Caesar or Ptolemy, or whatever his name is."

It was a long talk they had before a roaring fire in the cozy hall. It settled many points besides the ownership of the dog. When it was finished it was twilight, and two very contented young people were enjoying their rightful heritage of happiness again.

"And about the dog?" Ravenor suggested when he finally arose to leave.

"You take him," she said. "He's really yours by right of priority. You bought him first."

"I'll tell you," Ravenor said, with conviction. "Let's call him Ptolemy Caesar and own him jointly, and—let's—er—well, fix it so we can have him with us both, you know. Will you, Katherine?"

The girl fell to laughing until the tears rolled down her cheeks.

"Oh, what a way of putting it!" she cried but there was a light in her eyes that brought Ravenor to her side.

And the newly christened Ptolemy Caesar leaped about them with yelps of joy.

POOR BUSINESS FOR MINISTER

Marriage Ceremony Left him Something Out of Pocket.

Several years ago Rev. Mr. G— was one of the leading Baptist clergymen in one of our Eastern cities. One Sunday evening after the usual service a couple came up to him and asked if he would marry them. He agreed to, and the ceremony was performed without incident. After the usual blessing the newly married couple went down the aisle toward the door. When they reached the entrance however, something seemed suddenly to occur to the bride, who turned back to the bride and came back to the pulpit where the minister was, and said:

"Parson, I haven't got any money to pay for this job, so I'll be glad if you will trust me. I'll pay you as soon as I get the money."

"All right," replied Mr. G—. "Pay me whenever it is convenient," and the man again started for the door.

A second time he came back, this time to say:

"Parson, it's raining. Excuse me but will you lend me 50 cents so we can get home? I can't take her out in this rain, you know."

He got the 50 cents.

SHE HAD SUBSTITUTE AT HAND.

The Head of the Family Stood Ready to Meet an Emergency.

In one of New York's largest night schools a woman entered not long ago with her husband and son. She announced that she wished to send her son to the school.

"What is his name?" asked the man at the desk.

Husband tried to answer, but he was waved aside by his wife.

"Samuel," came the reply.

Several more questions were put and answered invariably by mother, in spite of father's weak attempts to have his say.

Finally came the question: "How old is he?"

Having once more squelched her husband, the woman replied, "Twelve years—"

"Twelve?" said the man at the desk. "In that case he is too young to be admitted."

"Too young?" Her face betrayed great dismay. An idea came. She smiled blandly at the school official. "All right. Then I'll send my husband."

The Proof of the Pudding

Nearly all fire insurance policies are dressed alike.

They are mostly gaily lithographed fellows filled with many "afore saids" and "hereinafters."

They all promise you the same thing—protection.

The proof that the promise is protection lies in the past record and present condition of the issuing company.

Our policies are backed by companies that have been tried and proven.

You Can Easily Operate

This Typewriter Yourself

Don't worry your correspondent. You can write him anything by hand that takes him time to make out—that is, only leave him in doubt—that he can't read it. And don't all out in a paper or card memo—write out accounts or hotel memos in your own handwriting.

It looks bad, reflects on your standing, makes people think you can't afford a stenographer, and is sometimes ambiguous. You can write out your letters—make out an abstract—fill in an insurance policy—enter your card memo—make out your accounts or a hotel memo—do any kind of writing you need, on any kind, size or thickness of paper and space any way you want.

The OLIVER Typewriter

You can write any of these things if you do not happen to have a stenographer. For you can easily learn, with a little practice, to write just as rapidly, and as perfectly, as an expert operator on the OLIVER. Because the OLIVER is the simplified typewriter. And you can see every word you write. About 90 per cent. more durable than any other typewriter, because it has about 40 per cent. less wearing points than most other typewriters.

So per cent. easier to write with than these other complicated, intricate machines that require "humorous"—technical knowledge—long practice and special skill to operate.

Than machines which cannot be adjusted to any special need with which it is impossible to write abstracts, insurance policies, or odd-size documents except you buy expensive special attachments requiring expert to operate.

You can adjust the OLIVER to any reasonable size and thickness of paper, right out to the very edge, without the aid of any expensive attachments or special skill, and your work will be neat, appearing, legible and clear.

For the OLIVER is the typewriter for the doctor, the lawyer, the insurance agent, the merchant, the hotel proprietor—or any man who does his own writing.

BEAUTIES OF A FLY BLISTER.

Clearly They Must Be Experienced to Be Appreciated.

The Marshfield News tells how Herman Bauer treated himself for pain in the back. Instead of forgetting it Mr. Bauer slapped a Spanish fly blister on his person. A fly blister is a good deal like hiring a butcher to skin you. In about five minutes it set up a conflagration on Herman like a fire in a paint shop.

He at once separated himself from the plaster, but the latter left its warm, cheery influence behind. There was no let up to the pain it gave him. At three in the morning it was still burning like a coal of fire, and, unable to stand it any longer, he telephoned for his family doctor, who happened to be eight miles out in the country. Herman now imagined he could smell burning flesh. Daylight brought the doctor, who with proper cautions soon got the fire under control.

There is a spot on Herman's about the size of a wool hat, but other pain has quit. You must put a fly blister on somebody, put it on the baby. He will roller, anyhow. Or on the policeman. Minneapolis Journal.

Making More Than a Living

Nearly every man who works steadily makes more than a living. During these slow times the men who have saved something appreciate what it is to have something laid away for a rainy day. A few cents a day soon counts up, and when savings are placed in a bank at a tidy interest the sum soon grows to proportions that make it a safeguard against want when work is not plentiful. Figure up how much more than a living you are making now, and place the difference in this bank. Four per cent. interest paid in savings department.

HEROISM OF TRAINED NURSES.

Fight Grimmiest of Battles with No Trumpet Sound to Encourage.

The trained nurse goes into battle encouraged by none of the blood-stirring incidents of the soldier. She is often entirely alone; her struggle must be quiet, and her antagonist is grim and terrible and ever watchful, because it is death itself. Suppose it is you yourself who are suddenly smitten in the midst of your life and work, says Anne O'Hagan in the Delineator. With the coming of the trained nurse you feel infinite relief from thanksgiving. You are no longer obliged to struggle alone, to watch the door alone lest that other one enter. The nurse, calmest of warriors, least grim of sentinels, sits beside your bed and will keep the vigil for you. You transfer the battle to her. For yourself, you will lie still and think—not of the combat before you, not of the turmoil behind you—that whirling, dusty conflict of the world which was so important a little while ago—but of the great, important things—earth and its greenness, the wide, white, country skies on moonlight nights, the flash of blue birds' wings in the September sunshine, all the daily miracles you had forgotten to watch when you were hurrying to those manifold appointments of yours. Now you are in the region where only "the mightier movement sounds and passes, only winds and rivers, only life and death."

BUYING THEM A LITTLE DRINK.

City Official Hadn't Consulted the Tastes of His Clerks.

Some time ago, E. W. Bemis, superintendent of the city water works, asked two clerks in another city department to make some computations for him. They worked late and finished the figures to Mr. Bemis' entire satisfaction.

"That's very kind of you, boys," he told them. "I guess I will have to buy you a little drink."

They didn't mind. So the three sallied forth from the city hall. Mr. Bemis led the way down Superior street. When he passed some of the drink dispensaries without casting as much as a glance in their direction he two clerks began to wonder.

"We must be going to take us to the club," whispered one to the other. At last they entered a bedizen spot at a street intersection. Walking up to the rail, Mr. Bemis spoke to the white-aproned attendant.

"Make us three nice sodas," he said. "What flavor will you have, boys?" He turned to hear their answer. He got none. They were not there.

COMPLIMENT FROM THE HEART.

Longfellow Appreciated the Praise of English Workingman.

When Longfellow was in London, Queen Victoria sent for him to come and see her at the palace. He went, and just as he was seating himself in the waiting coach after the interview, a man in working clothes appeared, hat in hand, at the coach window.

"Please sir, yer honor," said he, "an' are you Mr. Longfellow?"

"I am Mr. Longfellow," said the poet.

"An' did you write the 'Psalm of Life?'" he asked.

"I wrote the 'Psalm of Life,'" replied the poet.

"An' yer honor, would you be willing to take a working man by the hand?"

Mr. Longfellow gave the honest Englishman a hearty handshake. Later, in speaking of the incident, he said:

"I never in my life received a compliment which gave me more satisfaction."

The "Psalm of Life" has been translated into 15 different languages.

Corroboration of Bible Story.

Burgsch Bey, the Egyptologist, says that it is no longer difficult to understand the origin of the "seven lean years" narrative in the book of Genesis. The hieroglyphic inscriptions translated by him show that 1,700 years before the Christian era the Nile for seven consecutive years did not overflow and famine, pestilence and misery followed. "We know," says he, "that the date of the seven years of fruitlessness mentioned in Genesis was 1700 B. C. and thus what has been looked upon as a fancy has through these hieroglyphics become a matter of history. The failure of the Nile to overflow, the withering of the vegetation, the lands devoid of crops, famine and the consequent scourges are all depicted in the pictures which the student has been able to decipher."

A Magic Oven.

The smith was building a large and peculiar oven. "It's a shame," he said, "to tell you what this oven's for; but the secret is too good a one to keep. It is a picture-aging oven. It is guaranteed to add in a couple of hours two or three hundred years to a picture's age. You know the cracks, the innumerable little cracks, that cross-cross in a thousand squares and diamonds the surface of an old master? Well, a smooth, fresh picture, put into this oven, develops under a carefully regulated temperature those very cracks. Withdraw your picture, then add dust and dirty varnish to taste and set to cool, and you've got an old master that Gobba Golde or Stoxon Bonds will pay big money for. I don't tell you the name of the well known art dealer I am making this oven for," the smith concluded. "But it's not the first, nor the tenth oven, either, I've turned out."

Partridges' Devotion.

Few birds are so devoted to one another as partridges, but like other much less affectionate birds they seem to get over their bereavements in a remarkably short space of time.

When a covey in September takes a fancy to lying in a particular bit of clover or a little patch of rough grass and thistles you may be almost sure of finding them there at certain times of the day, and unless they are disturbed too frequently there they will be found so long as any of them are left. They are devoted alike to each other and to particular spots, but their family fondness is only existent so long as the object of their affections is visible.

Resistance of Snow.

During certain government experiments at Washington with reference to the effects of sudden pressures, attention was called to a singular experience, which sometimes happens to people who go shooting in winter. If the muzzle of a gun happens to become plugged with a little snow, the gun invariably bursts when fired in that condition. Light as the plug of snow is, it requires a definite time for a finite pressure, however great, to get it under way, and during this short time the tension of the powder gases becomes so great that the barrel of the ordinary fowling piece is unable to withstand it.

What Ears Are For.

In a Cleveland kindergarten the children were reciting their nature lesson in unison, responding to questions of the teacher.

"Now, children," began the latter, "I have fingers to—"

"And eyes to—"

"See with!" chorused the tots.

"And a nose to—"

"Smell with."

"And a mouth to—"

"Taste with."

"And ears to—"

"Telephone with," replied the class, triumphantly.

Flies in Liverpool.

Liverpool is endeavoring to organize a crusade against flies, which, says Knowledge, are now admitted to play an important part in the dissemination of disease. Their breeding places in the city have been ascertained, their development history has been carefully worked out and suggestions are made as to the manner in which their extraordinary rate of multiplication can be readily checked. It will be interesting to see whether the suggestions will be acted upon, and if so, whether any perceptible diminution of these insects in the city will be noticeable next summer.

First English Pawnbroker a Bishop.

No one would guess that "Uncle" had so illustrious an ancestor as a right reverend prelate, yet this seems to be so, for pawnbroking was first introduced into England by Michael de Northburg, bishop of London, in Edward III's reign. He set up an establishment for lending money to the poorer Londoners on portable property, and according to Dugdale if any sum so borrowed was not paid at the expiration of a year the preacher at St. Paul's Cross was to announce that the pledge would be sold unless previously redeemed.—Pearson's Weekly.

Literal or Nothing.

Teacher—Your composition is very good, my dear, but I don't understand the title you have given it. Why "Afterward"—that name has nothing to do with it.

Small Scholar—You told us to.

Teacher—I told you to! I never saw it before!

Small Scholar—Yes, ma'am; you said we must write a description of our Saturday and name it afterward!

If I Quake.

We boast of our emancipation from many superstitions; but if we have broken any idols, it is through a transfer of the idolatry. What have I gained, that I no longer immolate a bull to Jove, or to Neptune, or a mouse to Hecate; that I do not tremble before the Eumenides, or the Catholic purgatory of the Calvinistic judgment day—if I quake at opinion, the public opinion, as we call it? If I quake what matters it what I quake at?—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

CLEANING GUN, SHOOTS HIMSELF

Monongahela Man Dies from

Accident On Yesterday Afternoon.

FUNERAL THIS MORNING

Peter Martinpillo of Monongahela, trifled with a loaded revolver yesterday afternoon and accidentally discharged the weapon, the bullet taking effect in his left side and penetrating the heart and lung. He died instantly. The report of the revolver brought other members of the household to his room.

His body was found lying in a pool of blood that poured from the wound in his breast. It is supposed that Martinpillo was about to clean the weapon and was unaware that the loaded shells had not been withdrawn. He was aged 19 years. The funeral was held this forenoon at 10 o'clock from the St. Anthony church.

Heavily Fined.

The largest fine ever imposed by a Washington, Pa., burgess was assessed against Julie DePhillippe, who pleaded guilty to a charge of keeping dynamite in the borough. Fifty dollars and costs was the penalty.

MAY HAVE TO PAY
$62,000 FOR BUILDING

The town of Belle Vernon is at present facing a chance of having to pay $62,000 for a $25,000 school building. The building was erected in 1873, and the cost of construction at that time was something over $25,000. Bonds were issued to the amount of $18,000 the balance being raised by taxation and otherwise. Part of the bonds drew 6 per cent. interest for 15 years. Of the amount originally borrowed only $5,500 has been paid, while bonds to the amount of $10,420 have since been issued. All but the $12,500 has, however, been redeemed. In the 35 years the bonded indebtedness has cost the taxpayers, including principal and interest, $34,625.

Adding to this the $7,000 above the first bond issue that the school district raised in 1873, makes the building cost already $41,625. There is yet due $12,500. If one bond a year is redeemed it will take 25 years to liquidate the indebtedness. In this time the interest will foot up $7,625. This will make the building have cost $49,250, and have taken for its payment a period of 60 years.

Today the Belle Vernon house of learning would bring scarcely $5,000. It is not up-to-date and has no conveniences.

Tendered Surprise.

Mrs. S. E. White of Wilkinsburg, was tendered a birthday surprise at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Crawford, No. 406 Lookout avenue Saturday evening 6 p. m. The plans were well laid and "Auntie White" received the surprise of her life, although the occasion was the anniversary of her 75th birthday. Many kind regards were sent from those who were not able to be present. Many beautiful and useful presents were given with best wishes for many more pleasant occasions. Six o'clock dinner was served by Mrs. Crawford assisted by Mrs. W. D. Pollock. The evening was spent in social conversation and pleasant recollections of happy days gone by.

ACTIVITY IN THE CAMP OF OSBORNE

Baseball In Charleroi Will

Receive Impetus This Week.

PLAYERS REPORTING

The first active step in local baseball takes place today. Quite a number of men have reported to Manager Osborne and daily practice will be indulged in until the 24th when the first exhibition game will be played.

At that time the strong W. and J. College team under the direction of Coach McHale will be here. On the 25th the P. A. C. team of Pittsburg will be here. On the 25th the local fans will be given a chance to see McKeesport of the O. and P. League and on the 26th Bill Phillips will have his East Liverpool team here.

From the bunch that Osborne has signed he should be able to pick a winning combination from Charleroi in the new Pawva League.

He has a bunch of twirlers that can't be beat, by any in the league. The catching department will be well taken care of by George Dailer and with those that Arch has signed for the remaining positions he thinks there will be nothing to it but Charleroi.

QUARREL--ONE STABBED

Foreigners Fight--Police

Busy Saturday And Sunday.

As a result of a little disagreement over the fancies of a girl, John Russell, a miner of Rostraver is wearing his head sideways today, and Charles Kritt, a farmer of somewhere possesses a gloomy look. The former received a slit in the neck that while not dangerous is very painful. The other was not hurt much, because of his size, being able to well take care of his opponent.

The fight occurred at 933 Oakland avenue, after a several minutes wrangling during which time each flung invectives enough at the other that Hades would seem like a May day compared with the atmosphere in that vicinity.

The police were called for after Kritt had drawn a knife and tried to cut off Russell's head. Both fighters were arrested and will have a hearing this evening.

Hats and Things.

Of all the exaggerated feminine fashions which have struck swelldom in years, the Merry Widow hat probably carries off all the posies in the conservators—at least it has the dimensions to accomplish this feat.

Just think of this boys, they tell of some 36 inches in diameter. Why they are bigger around than the rucking—on—on—well this isn't the woman's corner, and I'm afraid to take a chance.

Some of our Willie boys a few years ago went in for a wide brimmed straw, but the sombrero style never got very far among the chaps who took their exercise in a civilized community. However, when it comes to stirring things up, give us the fair sex every time.

We have not been giving this matter much thought until yesterday, but it strikes us now that we shall have to make it a point to take up an observation peace about the skyscraper comedy when the wind is blowing and keep a sharp eye peeled for a Merry Widow hat. Just ponder on the psychological research which might be developed there. The question to determine being: In a squall which sail should the trim first—hat or hoery?—Uniontown Herald.

A new railroad will soon make its appearance. Watch for further announcement of the O. I. C. and E. Q. lines.

FRIENDS QUARRELED AND MURDER IS THE RESULT

A Good Move.

J. W. Berryman and Son announce in today's advertisement their intention of closing their store at 5 o'clock on Wednesdays. We want to congratulate them on taking this progressive step. All merchants should do likewise. Clerks in dry goods and clothing stores have too long hours here. Employers cannot expect good service from employees who have to be on duty 12 and 14 hours a day.

Social.

The Charleroi Social Club will give a 10 cent social Thursday evening, April 23, in P. H. C. hall. Social will begin at 8:30 o'clock. A good time has been planned. Members and their friends are invited. Coffee and sandwiches will be served.

AS VIEWED IN PITTSBURG

The Resumption Of Work

In Mines Will Stimulate
Other Trades.

Mine workers and operators of the Pittsburg district who were present at the wage conference in Toledo, which closed Friday night, arrived home yesterday. Both sides are well pleased with the result of the conference, and it is the opinion that by tomorrow or Tuesday at the least the mines in the district will be working to at least half of their full capacity.

A meeting of the Pittsburg operators will probably be held tomorrow afternoon, when a committee will be appointed to confer with a committee representing District No. 5 of the United Mine Workers of America, for the purpose of drafting a scale to fit the conditions of the local district under the new inter-State agreement. All the companies that wish may begin the operation of their mines tomorrow, though it is not thought that many of them will go into operation until Tuesday.

Second only to that of the miners and operators is the satisfactory feeling held by the traffic officials of the railroad in Pittsburg regarding the agreement reached in the dispute over the coal wage scale. A marked impetus will be given the freight movement this week, and preparations are being made to handle an immense tonnage by rail and lake.

Although the manufacturers and railroad officials had anticipated trouble in the mining situation, and a probable suspension was expected, they arranged to store a supply to carry them through this period, but as the opinion prevailed that an early agreement would be reached this supply was rather limited and is said to be rapidly diminishing.

Preparations on the lakes have been made, and it is understood the Pittsburg Steamship Company has 12 boats tied up for repairs which will be ready for operation in about 10 days. The Ashtabula Port Burwell ferry will go into comm. sin tomorrow, establishing service for heavy freight across the lake to Canada.

The coal-handling facilities along the lakes have been repaired and every move has been made by the transportation companies for a large tonnage. Reports to the traffic officials of railroads in Pittsburg indicate large contracts have been received from the Northwestern consumers.—Dispatch.

Monessen Italian Youths Become Angered And One Is Knufed.

ASSAILANT IS CAUGHT

Escapes After Committing

Act But Is Found Sunday Morning.

As a result of a quarrel over a trivial matter Saturday night in Monessen Elia Chierigh to is dead, and Guido Lalli is now confined in the Westmoreland County jail at Greensburg, charged with murder. The tragedy took place in the yard of the home where the two young Italians boarded, at about 12 o'clock, in the presence of the victim's two brothers and two other foreigners.

What the quarrel was about has not been learned, but it was some unimportant matter on which there occurred a difference of opinion, after the friends had sought their room for the night. Heated words brought on an offer of one of the young fellows to settle the matter in the yard where there was more room.

There the Italian youths went at each other hammer and tongs. During a brief respite Lalli drew a knife and plunged it into his opponent's body, the blade sinking into the left lung, just below the heart, making a fearful wound. The latter succumbed at once, almost before the steel could be removed from his body. Lalli fled and although a search was instituted no trace of the fugitive could be found during the night.

On Sunday morning at 7:30 as officer Peterson was going to the station house he saw a man on Third street bearing the appearance of Lalli. He finally identified him as such and placed him under arrest. A preliminary hearing before a justice was held and the young man was held for court.

Lalli and Chierigh to were both 21 years of age and had been chums from the day they met, about eleven months ago. The former seemed sorry that he had committed an act that caused his friend's death and said he was ready to suffer the consequences.

Costorina Ronito and Mike Brizzi had a fight last night, at 7:30 on the hill near Twelfth street. It was over a girl. The men were arrested and will appear tonight for a hearing.

The firm to Shannon and Mason, Butter and Egg dealers of Fallowfield avenue has been dissolved. The business will in future be conducted by Mr. Shannon.

Health and Cooking.

Good cooking is rapidly becoming a lost art. They who prepare the food for the world decide the health of the world. You have only to go on some errand amid the hotels of the United States and Great Britain to appreciate the fact that a vast multitude of the human race are slaughtered by incompetent cookery. Though a young woman may have taken lessons in music, and may have taken lessons in painting, and lessons in astronomy, she is not well educated unless she has taken lessons in dough.

As To Reservoirs.

A Civil engineer of Cincinnati, a
Mr. Gillespie has evolved a scheme to
to avoid the annual Spring floods that
work such havoc in the Ohio valley.
He proposes to build reservoirs at the mouth of the Monongahela and Allegheny rivers and their tributaries and
impound the surplus waters.

A few figures may show the fallacy
of his scheme. Using the following
data as a basis of calculation it will
easily seen what a misconception he
has of the problem. There are 43,500 sq.
feet in an acre; also 144 sq. inches in
a square foot and 1728 cubic inches in
a cubic foot. A cubic foot of water
contains 7.5 gallons. These figures
mean that there are 27,225 gallons of
water fall on an acre when there is an
inch of rain. There are 640 acres in
a square mile, which means that there
17,424,000 gallons of water fall on a
square mile from an inch of rainfall.

When you take into consideration
the tens of thousands of square miles
composing the sheds of the two rivers
you can easily see that Gillespie's
scheme is a fantastic one, for with
the accumulations of a winter's snows
passing off in a week's time a thousand
reservoirs as large as the Assouan
would not hold the water.

There is but one way to mitigate the
severity of the Spring floods and that
is to reforest the mountains that have been stripped of their timber. If at
same time, grass seed is sown so as to
have a sod to act as a sponge through
which the water may gradually drain
off, it will greatly aid the work.

That is the only solution of the
flood problem; all else is a waste of
time and money.

A Losing Issue.

Local option, taking the State as a whole, seems to have got a very small
the recent primaries.

Less than one-fourth of the State
Senators and Representatives nomina-

ted were chosen upon that issue. Some
of our exchanges seem to think that in
many cases the cause was discredited
in advance by the men who seized up-
on it as a political life preserver.

Be that as it may it is pretty certain there will no change in the laws
governing the liquor traffic at the
coming session of the legislature if the
primary returns are any criterion to
judge from.

Work Resumed.

The whole or partial resumption of
work in the mines in this vicinity
this morning causes rejoicing among
all classes of our citizens. It will
take several days before the output
becomes normal as there will be some
necessary cleaning up and the mines
overhauled.

The Mail would especially caution
the miners to exercise unusual caution
and care upon entering their places as
after a period of idleness loose rock
is apt to fall from unexpected places.
By exercising proper caution many accidents and fatalities may be avoided.
Be careful.

Tasty Displays.

The Easter displays of Charleroi
merchants reflected great credit upon
their taste and ingenuity and which
were equal in artistic skill of a window dresser of an emporium of a large
city.

The people of Charleroi should
take pride in patronizing their home
merchants as every dollar or even a
dime spent at home goes towards up-
building the city while money spent
in a mail order house is lost. Read
the advertising columns of The Mail
and act accordingly.

Is This Fair.

It is astonishing to read the number
and extent of the libellous criticisms
made upon the freemen of Pennsylvania
by newspapers presumably edited
by intelligent men.

They seem to revel in portraying the
people of Pennsylvania as ignorant or
degraded, servile and subjugated, the
peons of an unscrupulous boss. To read
those strictures those unacquainted
with our people would imagine that
they were sodden, trembling hinds
who had neither power nor will of
their own and to whom the nod of a
political boss was as a fiat of God.

Just what prompts these libels is
not apparent and the reason for them
is still more obscure. It is well, however, to remember that Pennsylvania
is neither Kansas nor Oklahoma; that isus and ists find uncongenial soil
here. The reformer with a theory of
how to reform the world with legal
enactments receives scant courtesy.

Pennsylvania has demonstrated what
is good and is holding fast to it, notwithstanding the unseemly and most
untruthful strictures of self-styled
tribunes.

machines; The Americans are officially invited to take part.

On the French Northern railway
many carriages are lighted by acetylene, and the results of using this
method of illumination are said to be
satisfactory.

Controller Wilson, of Chicago, has
made public the singular ruling that
no telephone, traction, electric light
or other public utility corporation can
make contributions to hospitals or
other charities.

Colonel John Temple Graves is said
to be on detailed duty this spring as one of William Randolph Heart's
walking delegates and organizers.
"Heart be giving up what was
meant for mankind."

It is a fair supposition that at some future day Japan and China will clash
swords for the political headship of
the Far East. Official Japan has no
wish to hasten that date, and China

has much to do before she is ready
for it.

The English language is now
taught in many of the schools of Paraguay. Consul Norton (Asunc-ion) reports: "American school
books, especially those designed for
kindergarten and primary classes, are
highly esteemed."

The officers of the American regiments now in Cuba are studying
Spanish by order of General Barry.
"Those of our officers whom I saw on
coming to Cuba who could swap one
thought with a Cuban," wrote Colonel Bullard, of the Eighth infantry,
not long ago to a military journal, "I
could count upon my fingers."

One of the tasks Japan has undertaken is the reforesting of Corea.
The watersheds has been largely denuded of their trees before the Japanese took hold, and the unhappy
Country of the Morning Calm is pay-
ing the penalty in the submergence of
wide areas of farm land by devastating floods.

The Rev. J. M. Haines, of Logan-
port, Ind., wanted to be a presiding
elder. Instead of giving him that
coveted position, the bishop sent him
to a small country charge. He flatly
refused to go. He says: he'll spend
the next two years on a farm, he owns, and may retire from the ministry altogether. It is probable that he will.

Stood with Father.

"There is a little chap in our town,"
said the suburbanite, "whose father
and mother have quite frequently, and have them loud enough to be heard by the neighbors. The burden
of their recriminations, when audible,
is, on the wife's part, that she ever
lowered the Hicks family sufficiently
to marry a Stubbs; and on his part
that he ever honored the Hicks family
by allying it with the house of Stubbs.

One day last summer the young son
of the house went fishing. He had
barely got his line into the brook
when he heard his mother calling him.
"There it is," said he, disgustedly;
"the minute the Stubbses begins to fish the Hickses begins to holler."

The Nubian Passion.
They had just established a telephone exchange in the circus and engaged a pulled and rompedoured
young woman to take charge of it.

The pride of the Nubian desert had
suffered from an attack of indigestion
and the doctor of the show called up
and asked how he was.

The telephone young woman looked
around and saw that the noble brute
was snapping and snarling over his
breakfast.

"Lion's busy!" she answered and
rang off.

Test for Hydrochloric Acid.

A curious mishap has given us a
very delicate test for hydrochloric acid
in the atmosphere. In a North of England locality many houses have cur-
tains of the cream color produced by
metanil yellow—popularly known as
"dolly" cream dye and to science as
"the sodium salt of meta-amido-ben-
zine sulphonic acid-azo-diphenyl-
amine." Some of these cream-colored curtains suddenly changed to heliotropic. Investigation showed that an accidental escape of hydrochloric acid
from a neighboring alkali plant had
discolored the curtains and the dye
became a most useful test.

The Emerson Shoe
HONEST ALL
THROUGH

You ought to buy the Emerson Oxford
now because Fashion dictates
the wear of the low-cut shoe in Spring and Summer, and in the many stylish lasts of the Emerson Oxford we have just that newest style suited to your particular foot needs.

You ought to wear the Emerson Oxford because it combines comfort and style. The stiff box toe is built sufficiently high to give room for the foot,
and thus prevent that uncom-
fortable pressure and rubbing
wear to the hosiery found in the ordinary low cut shoe. The perfect cut of the upper leather of the Emerson permits of no flaring edge. That is why it is called
"The Shoe that Fits the Ankle."

Ask us to prove it before you buy. We only dare offer to because we know we can.

BEAUTIES OF A FLY BLISTER.

Clearly They Must Be Experienced to Be Appreciated.

The Marshfield News tells how Herman Bauer treated himself for pain in the back. Instead of forgetting it Mr. Bauer slapped a Spanish fly blister on his person. A fly blister is a good deal like hiring a butcher to skin you. In about five minutes it set up a conflagration on Herman like a fire in a paint shop.

He at once separated himself from the plaster, but the latter left its warm, cheery influence behind. There was no let up to the pain it gave him. At three in the morning it was still burning like a coal of fire, and, unable to stand it any longer, he telephoned for his family doctor, who happened to be eight miles out in the country. Herman now imagined he could smell burning flesh. Daylight brought the doctor, who with proper conditions soon got the fire under control. There is a spot on Herman's back about the size of a wool hat, but the other pain has quit.

You must put a fly blister on somebody, put it on the baby. He will holler, anyhow. Or on the policeman. —Minneapolis Journal.

Making More Than a Living

Nearly every man who works steadily makes more than a living. During these slow times the men who have saved something appreciate what it is to have something laid away for a rainy day. A few cents a day soon counts up, and when savings are placed in a bank at a tidy interest the sum soon grows to proportions that make it a safeguard against want when work is not plentiful. Figure up how much more than a living you are making now, and place the difference in this bank. Four per cent. interest paid in savings department.

COMPLIMENT FROM THE HEART.

Longfellow Appreciated the Praise of English Workman.

When Longfellow was in London, Queen Victoria sent him to come and see her at the palace. He went, and just as he was seating himself in the waiting coach after the interview, a man in working clothes appeared, hat in hand, at the coach window.

"Please sir, yer honor," said he, "an' are you Mr. Longfellow?"

"I am Mr. Longfellow," said the poet.

"An' did you write the 'Psalm of Life'?" he asked.

"I wrote the 'Psalm of Life,'" replied the poet.

"An' yer honor, would you be willing to take a working man by the hand?"

Mr. Longfellow gave the honest Englishman a hearty handshake. Later, in speaking of the incident, he said:

"I never in my life received a compliment which gave me more satisfaction."

The "Psalm of Life" has been translated into 15 different languages.

Corroboration of Bible Story.

Burgess Bey, the Egyptologist, says that the hieroglyphic inscriptions stand the origin of the "seven lean years" narrative in the book of Genesis. The hieroglyphic inscriptions translated by him show that 1,700 years before the Christian era the Nile for seven consecutive years did not overflow and famine, pestilence and misery followed. "We know," says he, "that the date of the seven years of fruitlessness mentioned in Genesis was 1700 B. C. and thus what has been looked upon as a fancy has through these hieroglyphs become a matter of history. The failure of the Nile to overflow, the withering of the vegetation, the lands devoid of crops, famine and the consequent scourges are all depicted in the pictures which the student has been able to decipher."

A Magic Oven.

The smith was building a large and peculiar oven. "It's a shame," he said, "to tell you what this oven's for; but the secret is too good a one to keep. It is a picture-aging oven. It is guaranteed to add in a couple of hours two or three hundred years to a picture's age. You know the cracks, the innumerable little cracks, that cross-cross in a thousand squares and diamonds the surface of an old master? Well, a smooth, fresh picture, put into this oven, develops under a carefully regulated temperature those very cracks. Withdraw your picture, then add dust and dirty varnish to taste and set to cool, and you've got an old master that Gobsa Golde or Stoxon Bonds will pay big money for. I don't tell you the name of the well known art dealer I am making this oven for," the smith concluded. "But it's not the first, nor the tenth oven, either. I've turned out."

Partridge's Devotion.

Few birds are so devoted to one another as partridges, but like other much less affectionate birds they seem to get over their bereavements in a remarkably short space of time. When a cocky in September takes a fancy to lying in a particular bit of clover or a little patch of rough grass and thistles you may be almost sure of finding them there at certain times of the day, and unless they are disturbed too frequently there they will be found so long as any of them are left. They are devoted alike to each other and to particular spots, but their family fondness is only existent so long as the object of their affections is visible.

Resistance of Snow.

During certain government experiments at Washington with reference to the effects of sudden pressures, attention was called to a singular experience, which sometimes happens to people who go shooting in winter. If the muzzle of a gun happens to become plugged with a little snow, the gun invariably bursts when fired in that condition. Light as the plug of snow is, it requires a definite time for a finite pressure, however great, to get it under way, and during this short time the tension of the powder gases becomes so great that the barrel of the ordinary fowling piece is unable to withstand it.

What Ears Are For.

In a Cleveland kindergarten the children were reciting their nature lesson in unison, responding to questions of the teacher. "Now, children," began the latter, "I have fingers to—"

"Feel with!" shouted the class.

"And eyes to—"

"See with!" chorused the tots.

"And a nose to—"

"Smell with."

"And a mouth to—"

"Taste with."

"And ears to—"

"Telephone with," replied the class, laughing.

Flies in Liverpool.

Liverpool is endeavoring to organize a crusade against flies, which, says Knowledge, are now admitted to play an important part in the dissemination of disease. Their breeding places in the city have been ascertained, their development history has been ascertained, and suggestions are made as to the manner in which their extraordinary rate of multiplication can be readily checked. It will be interesting to see whether the suggestions will be acted upon, and if so, whether any perceptible diminution of these insects in the city will be noticeable next summer.

First English Pawnbroker a Bishop. No one would guess that "Uncle" had so illustrious an ancestor as a right reverend prelate, yet this seems to be so, for pawnbroking was first introduced into England by Michael de Northburg, bishop of London, in Edward III's reign. He set up an establishment for lending money to the poorer Londoners on portable property, and according to Dugdale if any sum so borrowed was not paid at the expiration of a year the preacher at St. Paul's Cross was to announce that the pledge would be sold unless previously redeemed.—Pearson's Weekly.

Literal or Nothing.

Teacher—Your composition is very good, my dear, but I don't understand the title you have given it. Why "Afterward"—that name has nothing to do with it.

Small Scholar—Yes, ma'am: you said we must write a description of our Saturday and name it afterward!

If I Quake.

We boast of our emancipation from many superstitions; but if we have broken any idols, it is through a transfer of the idolatry. What have I gained, that I no longer immolate a bull to Jove, or to Neptune, or a mouse to Hecate; that I do not tremble before the Eumenides, or the Catholic purgatory of the Calvinistic judgment day—if I quake at opinion, the public opinion, as we call it? If I quake what matters it what I quake at?—Ralph Waldo Emerson.
